CAPITAL AREA

WORKFORCE DEVELOPMENT BOARD
...serving Wake and Johnston Counties

Changes abound at the Capital Area office and we hope the optimistic atmosphere that we have gains momentum as the year 2010 rolls on. See what's going in the year's first edition of Capital Connections!

A New Start For Capital Area Staff

New location, new team members, and very soon a permanent Executive Director. "New Beginnings" is the theme for 2010.

Capital Area was relocated from its office in downtown Raleigh to the current location directly off Capital Boulevard. The new office boasts two conference rooms, private offices for all, and has the added convenience of free parking.

Board members and partners are invited to attend an open house on February 17th from 4 to 6 pm. Take a tour, enjoy light refreshments, and meet the staff, including our newest team members! Brian Mitchell recently joined Capital Area to oversee the Summer Youth Employment Extension Program. There are also two new employees to manage the grant-funded Healthcare Works Allied Health Regional Skills Partnership. Tanja Bean has been hired as the Workforce Manager, and Sara Davarbakhsh assists her as the Program Coordinator.

Please feel free to join us for the open house. We look forward to seeing you there!

GET SMART!

Words
To Live By

Capital Area's Disability Program Navigators do a great job educating JobLink staff, businesses, and others on how to best assist those who have disabilities.

Georgia Steele, Shirley Chamberlain, and Crystal McIver recently provided training entitled "Words Without Dignity". Did you know you can easily offend a disabled person with what you say?

Here are some examples:

Instead of: handicap
Say: person who is disabled

Instead of: birth defect
Say: disabled since birth

Instead of: inflicted Say: caused by " _____ "

Instead of: crazy
Say: person with a psychiatric disability

Instead of: lunatic
Say: mental illness

Instead of: blind person
Say: person who is blind

Isn't this information every-one can use? Look for more Words to Live By in the next issue of Capital Connections!

AmeriCorps Joins Extreme Home Makeover Effort

A track record of accomplishment in the areas of education, public safety, the environment, and health and human needs.

On Tuesday, November 17, 2009, Access JobLink AmeriCorps members participated in ABC's Extreme Home Makeover on location in Lexington, NC. Upon arrival, it was apparent that many of the previous volunteers had also come, producing an abundance of helpers. Even so, members did what they could to help, including collecting trash on the set, cleaning up the surrounding neighborhood, and even doing some minor acting carrying furniture into the house for the cameras. Doing take after take of the same activity made them feel lucky that they don't have to live life in front of a camera!

Eventually, the time came for the show's trademark shout: "Move that bus!". Sharing the experience with a family that was seeing their new home for the first time was the most enjoyable part of the day according to participants.

The episode is scheduled to air the third Sunday in February. Be sure to watch and look for our AmeriCorps members proudly wearing their AmeriCorps attire.

Summer Youth Program Extension Produces Success Story

Forty-eight young people continue to receive work experience thanks to the extension of the Summer Youth Employment Program. By taking advantage of this opportunity, not only do they get job training, but also exposure to people and places they might not otherwise get.

Safiyya Simmons is one such person. While working at St. Augustine's Career Development Center, she found herself becoming increasingly interested in going to college. So, she applied and has been accepted into St. Augustine's College! Her plan is to major in Organizational Management and she will be starting classes this month!

Approximately 38 more youth will be enrolled into the program before it closes at the end of March. Safiyya is an outstanding example of what can happen when young minds are opened to new experiences and possibilities.

Congratulations, Safiyya!

Incumbent Worker Development Program

Eight Capital Area businesses were awarded training funds through the Incumbent Worker Development Program. These award announcements were made at the end of October. We applaud companies that are dedicated to increasing the skills and skill levels of their workforce, not just to benefit their business, but also for the good of the employee.
